Included in the musical hits of the musical sensation "Madame Sherry," listed for performance here by the New York New Amsterdam Theatre company, on Saturday night, May 13, at the opera house are "Every Little Movement Has a Meaning All Its Own," "You Can't Argue, Can You?" "The Kiss You Gave," "Uncle Says I Mustn't Go So I Won't," "The Birth of the Butterfly," "The Suite She Means for You," "The Love Dance," "Athletic Franchising," "The Dublin Rag," "I'm All Right," "I Want to Play House With You," "Off for a Sail," "We Are Only Poor Weak Mortals" and "The Seduction."

Judging by the applause, or the lack of it, "The Thief," presented in the opera house last night, did not please the audience. J. A. Heman, as Richard, the husband of "the thief," appeared to the least advantage of any in the cast and was strong in the scene of the denunciation of his wife. Lucille Spinney, as Marise, who stole large sums of money with which to purchase clothes that should make her husband proud of her appearance, in order that she might hold his love, overdid her part; and was not well liked. The other members of the cast were of average ability.

"Only a Sister." She's the right kind of a sister; by her self sacrifice and noble nature, she makes a man of her brother and every "son of a sea-cook" has to take of his hat to the little girl on the Texas ranch. If John were half the man that Molly is, she and her father would have been a great deal better off. Molly, by her industry and ambition has saved up five hundred dollars to go to college and complete her education. She is very proud of her achievement. John is a young fellow with extravagant idle notions, who refuses to hold his jobs as a skilled mechanic and insists upon spending his time in gambling and dissipation. Molly loves her brother and tries to induce him to mend his ways and make a man of himself. One of the most exciting horse races ever witnessed is produced in this photoplay. It's at the Dreamland.
